Hitchhiker' s guide movie quotes

Emma Kapots/Rd.comWhen Dorothy finds herself plunked in a new and strange land she speaks this famous line to her dog. It's the perfect thing to say whenever you encounter something unknown. You can count on such things that happen one or two times a week. There's a reason this movie is a beloved classic that everyone has seen countless times. Metaphor for life. And you also know there's no place like home, right? Emma Kapots/Rd.comArnold Schwarzenegger is not exactly known to be a thespian, which is why the delivery of his line worked perfectly as a robot assassin. The Terminator delivers the famous line to a police bureaucrat who won't let him in. Sure enough, he turns around- this time barreling through a car and destroying the police station and everything in it. Now the iconic line is also loved as memes or GIF. Want more horror movies? Here are the scariest movies of all time. Emma Kapots/Rd.comHumphrey Bogart makes it look so smooth and cool to be completely practical. He sends Lisa and Laszlo into a great sacrifice for the greater good. He's thinking about long-term results. He's not driven by some irrational, romantic notion—because the problems of three little people don't amount to a hill of beans in this crazy world. Calling the gorgeous Ingrid Bergman the perfect baby because he behaves just like a leveled father. Which is good, since they'll always have Paris. Add these 10 most romantic movies of all time to your list. Emma Kapots/Rd.comBack on the day this line was twice shocking because Clark Gable was swearing. It was pretty shocking, but can she get Miss Scarlet out? It was a burn! Then he went into the fog leaving her to cry on the gothic staircase. Don't worry about it! He'll go back to Tara and find a way to get it back. Because tomorrow's another day. Check out the list of movies that were better than the book. Emma Kapots/Rd.comChief Brody was occasionally throwing shark bait into the water, it's no big deal when we finally get a glimpse of Jaws. It's ginormous. He returns to the engine room of their small small ship and mutters the famous slogan. This is the perfect line to tell whenever you feel overwhelmed by anything. It doesn't have to be a shark. Emma Kapots/Rd.comJack Nicholson witness the meltdown stand is melodrama at its best. Made even better by Tom Cruise and Kevin Bacon hamming it in the background. If everyone could be happy to confess that easily. While Colonel Jessup may be grotesque, according to him, he saves lives. And you need it on the wall. But he also ordered the code red and now he's going to jail. Emma Kapotes/Rd.comFelicia appears in front of Ice Cube's porch and constantly asks to borrow this and that. Everyone has an annoying neighbor, office, roommate or an otherwise troublesome person who must be properly fired. These types are now collectively known as Felicia. You do not need to respond to these requests. Just. Just. I'll see you. Ready and done. It's a throwing line that's now ubiquitous. Thank you, Felicia. Emma Kapots/ Rd.comTom Cruise comes and gives Renee Zellweger a great romantic speech. The best part is that he has to deliver it in front of a women's support group. Brilliant. Eventually, Renee interrupts him with her famous line and falls into his arms. Everybody's crying! It's even better than you filling me in like a big slogan. You can replace almost anything for good and interrupt your friends with: You had me at coffee . . . Come... Baseball... Ice cream. Watch one of these best theaterjerk movies. Emma Kapotes/Rd.comClint Eastwood, aka Dirty Harry, utters this one-liner with characteristic gravel. He's in a fiery battle with the slowest, most uncoordinated crooks. One of them takes a hostage. Eastwood locks his famous Smith & Wesson and kills him with the famous catchphrase. The killer surrenders. Go and tell this line whenever you want to kill people (it works best if you pretend to be Clint Eastwood.) Emma Kapotes/Rd.comYouth Counterculture made this thriller a cult favorite while scaring the light of day out of their conservative parents. It's about the legions of street gangs running bitterly at night in the city. Each gang has a trick like wearing overalls, purple vests or baseball suits with mime make-up. Fortunately, they mainly want to fight each other. A band leader sings the famous slogan songs at the end while you click on glass bottles. This is a great line to use on your colleagues! Now check out the most iconic movies set in each state. Originally published: 19 March 2019 Last updated on 4 November 2020 Self-improvement should not be big changes to be amazing; it can actually be simple steps to improve what you already have to get where you want to be. However, what you will need is consistency, determination and willingness to try some things that will stretch and challenge you. Rather than setting your way to the future, which leaves you feeling like you won't, you can start following these simple and effective self-improvement steps today. So if you want to have an immediate impact on your life and are willing to take action, then continue reading- you'll love these!1. Be willing to work hard. Like anything in life, if you want something, you have to work hard to get it. That doesn't mean you burn the candle at both ends, leaving yourself exhausted and leaving your personal life in ruin. It just means that when you want something long enough, you'll have time to get there. Action is what is important here and the more inspired the action is, the better the results in the end.2. Make sure you have friends you can talk to. Burden sharing is important as in any self-improvement. If you can communicate with others and get feedback on how you do it, then that's great. We all need cheerleading in our corner to keep us going when times get tough, but you you have to have people to tell you is even when you don't want to hear it. So make sure you have a good network of support around you, especially those people whose opinions I respect. 3. Adapt to your circumstances rather than over-thinking them. Sometimes we can hit a tough time. Maybe you lost your job or your partner left you. Instead of looking over the situation, learn to adapt to your circumstances and accept them as they are. It's not about making your circumstances into some kind of drama; Remember, what focus on expanding which means you get more of it. Then do not become your problems and you will feel much less burdened by them.4. Make sure you use your time wisely. Time is essential, some might say; while others will say that time is an illusion. One thing we know is that you have a life on this planet, so the way you use that time is of the utmost importance. So you can use your time wisely? Only you know how to do that, but look at how you spend your current days: sit by work all day, get home, eat and then sit collapsed in front of the TV for the rest of the evening? The time you spend on this earth is precious, so isn't it time to use the time you have left? Try something new, go for a walk, learn a new language or meditate, but make sure it's something you absolutely like.5. Always be consistent. A great way to self-improve is to make changes to the way you do things. For example, with your friends, are you always the insecure one who leans out of an arrangement just before it happens? Or are you someone who starts a new routine exercise and then stops doing it 3 weeks into it? Whatever it is and whatever you do, always be consistent. When you make a commitment, stick to it. You'll improve your life in an inappropriate way, you'll feel more confident and happy with yourself, especially since you'll know that whatever you're tackling, you'll be able to do it constantly.6. Go find your happy place. No, I'm not saying place like in popping to the local bar or restaurant and gorging yourself on your favorite drinks or food. What I'm saying is find out what you like to do, what makes you happy and go there. Your happy place is a place where you find peace, where you get lost and feel satisfied. Meditation is a great way to find the happy place; brings you back to you and makes sure you're always living in the present moment. 7. Make sure you embrace all your emotions. In life you will find that you throw some difficult challenges, sometimes you will highlight your fears and will lead you into uncertainty, and other times you will be cheerful. It is important to embrace all the emotions that arise in your life, embrace them wholeheartedly and understand why they are and then let them go. Try not to reject or resist them, because remember what you resist persists, so hug them every time.8 Always be ready to get out of your comfort zone. The idea of out of comfort zone for some people can leave you paralyzed by fear; however, for any change in your life, your comfort zone will always have to be out of. It doesn't have to be big, it'd be to do a dive or something just as crazy. However, it is worth to change something that you would have feared once, would be going to the cinema on your own or eating at a sushi restaurant when the thought of trying raw fish that would normally mean you running for the hills. So try something new - it doesn't have to be wacky, but you have to challenge!9. Be handy to help others. Whether it's helping a stranger on the street or a family member or a friend helping someone else, or in their time of need, lending a helping hand is a wonderful and simple self-improvement to do. Giving others is not only beneficial to those you help, but also to yourself; it can give you a sense of purpose, contribution and also take your mind out of your troubles and worries. 10. Live in the present moment. A wonderful tool for self-improvement is to live in the present moment, to live in the present. At this point you will appreciate everything you have and see beauty in the simplest things. Being aware of the current circumstances and bringing your mind back to where it belongs will bring a happier way of life instead of constant worries or stressing about the past or future, both of which do not exist. Only the present moment exists. When you get used to living like this, you won't want to come back!11. Learn something new. There is nothing so liberating as learning something new; it can raise both confidence and self-esteem and will give you a great reason to meet new people. If you continually overturn your brain activity by learning something new all the time, you will feel at the top of the game and want to share the knowledge you have learned. There is nothing quite so empowering as learning a new tool in life that can either improve your circle of friends or raise your confidence-level or both! Reading is also a great way to help you learn something new.12. Daily exercise. This seems obvious, but exercise is so important not only to your health, but also to your spirit. We all know that after exercise, the world can feel a brighter and more positive place, so why don't we do it more often? Exercise is not about getting the perfect body or weight loss; it's more about feeling good inside and out! With a healthy body comes a healthy mind - so start something today. Even if it's just a daily walk, it's better than sitting on the couch again. 13. Go to new places, travel a little. I'm not saying go fly off to some far away forgotten terrain- though you can if you want Work. It's more about going to new places and experiencing life outside of the backyard. Too many of us stay in one place too often. We only see the same people, the same streets, and we do the same things every day. If you want to improve your life, your life, there and see the world and what it can offer. You can start by going to a city or city where you've never been to your own country and by checking out architecture, landscapes and people. Any new is good, so go there!14. Listen to up-to-do music and dance. If there's one thing that can really improve your life and get excited about it, it's listening to great up-and-coming music and dancing. When was the last time you let go? Leave everything free and get into a piece of music and get carried away? Dancing, like exercise, makes you feel great. It releases all kinds of emotions and can make you feel incredibly good. Self-improvement isn't all about serious things; it can be as simple as finding new music, music that inspires you and makes you dance and have fun!15. Get up earlier than normal. This is the last one, and it's the last one because it's one of those self-improvement tips that we all know is a good thing, but it seems to avoid at all costs! If you think about it, the oldest part of the day is when your brain is most active because it's been turned off for the last 7 hours or so. So you don't think it's better to get all these above things done in the morning? Things like exercise, meditation and dancing, which can all be done in the early part of the day. Take it from me: this early morning stuff can really get your day started with a bang! More about self-improvementFeatured photo credit: Laura Chouette by unsplash.com unsplash.com
